

Dear Colleague,

The International Network of Environmental Forensics (INEF-2013) Conference is almost upon here:

The 3rd INEF Conference will take place at Penn State University from June 10-12, and it includes a 1-day workshop on Environmental Forensics, as well as 2-days of scientific program, social events, exhibition, and the opportunity to interface with colleagues discussing the state-of-the-art in this exciting area. In addition, we have a student presentation competition (for which we can still accept abstracts) with cash prizes, and a fantastic scientific program!

The Local ACS section has graciously donated funds to allow me to award several free registrations to current full-time students (Undergraduate and Graduate). If you would like to be considered for a free conference registration, please respond directly to me (fld3@psu.edu) with a 1-paragraph summary as to how attending this conference and short course will benefit your education. Given the poster competition with awards for best student presentations, students are also strongly encouraged to submit a poster abstract on their research, as long as it fits into the technical program. Please respond to me by Monday June 3rd for consideration.

If you are still considering attending, please see the (nearly final) program which lists the conference details, program sponsors, etc... This information can be found here:

<http://forensics.psu.edu/news-events/events/2013/inef-penn-state-conference-2013>

Regular registration for this conference can be made on-line, using the RSC web site found here:

<http://www.rsc.org/ConferencesAndEvents/conference/alldetails.cfm?evid=111662>

Please note that we WILL NOT be able to process credit card payments on-site for conference registration, so if registration has not been done prior to the meeting, only cash or bank-check payments will be able to be accepted on-site.

Thank you in advance for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Frank Dorman